

Collaborative Team Member: By the End of Grade 4

Sharon students will be meaningful contributors by:

- Working towards group goals
- Being willing to share ideas with others
- Actively participating in group assignments

Sharon students will be respectful team members by:

- Encouraging and accepting other group members' ideas
- Demonstrating respect for others' opinions and contributions
- Being inclusive and allowing all voices to be heard

Sharon students will demonstrate leadership by:

- Beginning to assist others in problem solving
- Helping fellow group members stay on task
- Modeling positive social interactions with all group members

Sharon students will be receptive and flexible learners by:

- Listening to feedback from other group members
- Being open-minded to others' ideas and suggestions
- Being open to compromise

Collaborative Team Member: By the End of Grade 8

PRMS students will be meaningful contributors by:

- Assuming responsibility for my individual role in the group
- Dedicating time and energy to group goals
- Helping establish timelines and check-ins throughout assignment
- Confidently sharing ideas with others

PRMS students will be respectful team members by:

- Agreeing to respectfully disagree with fellow group members but still work towards a common goal
- Using positive language and having an open-minded attitude toward group interactions
- Appreciating other group members' areas of strength

PRMS students will demonstrate leadership by:

- Beginning to proactively problem solve issues and tackle perceived obstacles without teacher support
- Starting to identify all group members' strengths and utilizing them to achieve common goals
- Demonstrating a dedicated work ethic
- Beginning to negotiate differences in opinion in order to move the group forward

PRMS students will be receptive and flexible learners by:

- Listening and applying feedback from other group members
- Becoming more open-minded to others' ideas and suggestions even if they are vastly different than one's own views
- Recognizing that to be successful, compromise is necessary

Collaborative Team Member: By the End of Grade 12

RHS students will be meaningful contributors by:

- Actively participating in all group work and taking initiative to develop group roles
- Sharing responsibility for the task at hand
- Dedicating time to establishing timelines and check-ins throughout an assignment
- Being knowledgeable about each group member's role

RHS students will be respectful team members by:

- Establishing norms for group interactions
- Demonstrating openness and consideration of other group members
- Utilizing positive language and active listening skills when interacting with one's group
- Proactively problem-solve conflicts without teacher support

RHS students will demonstrate leadership by:

- Identifying all group members' strengths and utilizing them to achieve common goals
- Demonstrating a dedicated work ethic and motivating others to achieve their best
- Negotiating differences in opinion in order to move the group forward
- Consistently providing constructive feedback to all group members

RHS students will be receptive and flexible learners by:

- Listening to others' ideas and demonstrating flexibility when making group decisions
- Being receptive to and applying others' feedback, when appropriate

- Being willing to compromise throughout the decision-making process
- Being open to changing course, when appropriate